Reconnect, Gather, and Grow at Taos Goji

Nestled in the high desert of northern New Mexico, Taos Goji offers more than just a venue — it's a living sanctuary where people come to connect with themselves, each other, and the land. Surrounded by 40 acres of organic gardens, orchards, and fields, our historic property invites you to slow down, ground in, and create something meaningful.

Bring your people together and make the entire 40-acre farm and retreat center your own. Wake up in one of our artist-inspired cabins, once home to writers, visionaries, and dreamers. Step outside and greet the day as our donkey, alpacas, sheep, and goats graze peacefully nearby. Here, the pace is slower. The sky is wider. The space — both literal and energetic — is made for transformation.

Whether you're planning a yoga or meditation retreat, a men's or women's circle, a breathwork immersion, a family reunion, or a gathering of any kind, Taos Goji offers the space and spirit to support your work. Guests can soak in hot tubs, relax in our saunas, and gather under the stars around a communal fire. With wide-open fields, a rustic barn, and trails that weave through trees and pastures, your group will find both privacy and expansiveness.

Taos Goji is a place to unplug from the noise and return to what matters — movement, ceremony, storytelling, shared meals, quiet mornings, and laughter. From intimate circles to full-scale retreats, we welcome groups who are here to explore, expand, and reconnect.

We're honored to host gatherings that foster healing, joy, and renewal — and we'd love to be part of yours.
